If TAPT's or- their several junctions could be held in case ders should be strictly followed, New York city would be as easily carried as Florida, and if New York city goes for HAYES the State will go for him. It would be lawful under TAFT's orders to appoint ten thousand deputy marshals in that city; and with JOHNNY DAVENPORT'S performances there in 1872 fresh in our memories, we may well fear that the same means which carried the State then might carry it this year, and especially when we recall the facts that the vote of the State of New York was cast for GRANT in 1872, although SEYMOUR got it in 1868, and although TILDEN was elected In 1874. The State went for the Democrats four years before JOHNNY DAVENPORT appointed his deputy marshals in the city of New York, and also went for the Democrats two years after he did so, but went for GRANT in 1872, when he did appoint These are significant facts which cannot be hidden from our minds. We do not now remember how many deputy marshals, supervisors, &c., were appointed in New York city by Da-VENPORT, but we think there were several thousands of them. This year, under Mr. TAFT's instructions, he can appoint as many as he chooses to appoint. . "There is no limit to the number you can appoint," says Mr. TAFT. These startling features of the presidential campaign must claim our attention. We must consider them. We cannot shut our eyes to them. And so far from causing the Conservatives of Virginia to relax their efforts, these facts ought to increase their zeal in the cause, and their determination to carry Virginia for TH.DEN spite of ten thousand deputy marshals and twice ten thousand Federal supervisors. "If all the tiles on the houses were devils, I would go," said MARTIN LUTHER. This is the spirit that ought to actuate the southern people as well as the northern in view of the deliberate and manifest purelections in November by fraud, force, and Governor.

We wish to arouse the people, who are slumbering upon the brink of a precipice. effort to overcome them. We are far from rid of this unpleasant word and of the disagreeable truth which it tells?)unless TAFT's orders be carried into effect and HAYES be elected the tools of the Administration. We anxiously desire to awaken the northern people to the perils of the situation. If they can be alarmed the danger is over. Connecticut has spoken. The resolutions which we published yesterday show that there are people in at least one of the New England States who know their rights, and, knowing, dare maintain them. It is the northern people that we are trying to reach, not the people of Virginia. We cannot imagine that any Conservative is so faint-hearted as to concede that there is any danger that Virginia will fail to cast her electoral vote for TIL-DEN. The danger is not here. Here neither time nor money will be spent by the Republicans. Here but few deputy marshals or supervisors will be appointed. The contest is to come off in Indiana, New York, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Florida. There the money will flow as freely as water. There the deputy marshals and supervisors will be numbered by thousands. Without the vote of New York HAYES cannot be elected, unless he can named above. Grant has determined that dite and influential journal. HAYES shall be elected, and that the votes of those three States shall be counted for him. Does anybody doubt this statement? guished contemporary. Oan anybody doubt it? And if it be true, is it not time for every southern paper to sound the alarm in such a manner as that Captain John Smith was elicited by the call the North will be compelled to hear it? Would it be wise to cry "Peace! Peace!" when there is no peace?-to say to our northern friends and party associates that TILDEN will certainly receive the votes power to do so or not?

So far from keeping silence on this subject, the southern papers ought to call public meetings to protest against these orders | eaves of the church. of TAFT's, and to ask the northern people to aid us in saving our rights. We must use the means if we wish to gain the end. We must fight if we would win the battle. But no battle was ever won by a general who under-estimated the strength of his enemy.

We repeat, we have no fears that TILDEN will be defeated unless he shall be defeated by the use of the public money and the Federal army. Whatever we have said that that class is to construe them in their plain might imply a doubt as to the result of the and obvious meaning. Now, it might be inferred that as the name was given in my day, and as I have lived not many miles from Shattersburg, and knew the questionable character of the place and had seen the Commodore in court, and had known, moreover, Mr. Tazewell, and had written an account of his haracter, I may have given the name of the Columbian captain to the place in question. But I have already told you its true origin. So with Tarwallet. As the true reason of the name, so far as I know, is lost, if, indeed, t was ever known to more than those who lived on the spot, we may presume its derivation from the facts of that day. Then and for many years later no four-wheeled vehicle existed in the county of which the present Cumberland is a part. The late Mr. Nicholas Edmunds, to whom I have already referred, told me that when he was a boy at school in the county of Brunswick as it then was a four-wheeled wagon happened to pass by, and that the whole school, with the teacher at its head, ran out to look at it, and followed it for some distance. Tobacco was carried to market on rollers; and it may be that one of the men who were engaged in conveying the tobacco to the shipping might have procured a piece of say the Washington papers. Just so. And tarpaulin, and made a bag out of it, instead of the common buckskin, to keep his money and papers from exposure. I have said that the names of places must be usually construed to mean just what the words imlost. But where there is a mingling of populations we must adopt another rule. In the region of Tarwallet the Huguenot made his impression, not only by commixture till after Indiana elects BLUE JEANS WIL- of blood with the Anglo-Saxon, but in giving names to settlements. were ordered to be published in the Richmond and Petersburg papers. The county seems to be aroused at last. On Saturday there was a large barbecue at Hague's mill, attended by white and colored, which was addressed by Major Willis J. Dance, Captain William E. Royall, and Willis B. It was once great tobacco mart before the railroad connecting it with the North Carolina Central railroad was torn up. The iron of this branch was taken, I think, to build the Piedmont road during the war.

Here was formerly located several tobacco manufactories. One of them was considered to be the largest in the United States and probably in the world. It has lost much of that trade, there not being a pound manufactured in the place at this time, I think. But there is still a large trade in leaf tobacco carried on here. Several gentlemen of the former town have expressed the opinion that the same result will be had under the new order. One of their reasons for it is that were the holder of the bonds to get a judgment under the new organization the real estate of the town would have to pay the debt, an event they regard as eminently unjust, inasmuch as when the debt was created the property in slaves was assessed at more than the lands, and the owners of the negroes paid more than one half of the one per cent. levied to pay the debt. Now, should a new election be ordered and the citizens refuse to vote and perfect an organization, what would be the next step for the court? Can it issue a mandamus requiring men to vote if they do not want to, or would it have the entire male population before it to answer for contempt? It seems
